Adrianne works with clients to find solutions to their litigation issues through thoughtful consideration of their business objectives.

Adrianne is adept at creating well-reasoned litigation strategies that resolve business disputes at the earliest stage possible. If early resolution is not possible, Adrianne helps clients protect their business interests through representation in state and federal court. She supports clients on a broad spectrum of matters including, contract disputes, business torts, and class actions.

Before coming to Holland & Hart, Adrianne was an associate at a litigation firm based in Denver. Adrianne served as a law clerk to Judge John R. Blakey of the US District Court for the Northern District of Illinois and worked at a prominent law firm in Chicago.
