Diana brings extensive international tax experience from her practice at Baker McKenzie in Chicago. Prior to joining Holland & Hart, she worked for the Chief Tax Strategist at Northern Trust Corporation, covering tax reform legislation for the company and its high-net worth clients.

Diana began her career as an institutional-side advisor and mutual fund sales representative for a global investment company. She became keenly interested in how tax consequences drive investment decisions and attended law school so she could provide much-needed expertise and counsel to financial advisors and financial institutions.

Her tax practice experience includes advising a wide range of institutional funds, fund investors, and corporations, on state, national, and international tax transactions. Diana draws on her comprehensive tax counseling background to provide clients facing tax litigations and controversies with pragmatic, solution-oriented advice.
