Nadya provides practical and dynamic counsel to local and international brand owners, assisting them with all aspects of prosecution, use, and enforcement of their most valuable intellectual property assets.

Clients rely on Nadya to provide efficient day-to-day responses and effective long-term management of their domestic and worldwide trademark portfolios. Nadya's clients benefit from the invaluable perspective she gained as in-house counsel and from her deep knowledge of the food and beverage, pet food and product, and software product and service industries.

When her clients face a dispute over trademark use or ownership, Nadya draws on her extensive experience with trademark and copyright litigation, including resolution of countless matters in federal court, before the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board, and similar international forums, under the Uniform Domain-Name Dispute-Resolution Policy, and through skillful negotiation with opposing parties in private settlement and alternative dispute resolution forums.
