Erin represents owners, developers, and investors through the entire lifecycle of commercial real estate transactions, from acquisition and financing to leasing and disposition. As a former in-house attorney in the title industry, Erin provides clients with a strategic perspective on challenging title and closing issues. She leverages her experience in bankruptcy and insolvency to assist clients acquiring or disposing of distressed real estate assets.

In addition to her traditional commercial real estate and finance practice, Erin represents for-profit and non-profit developers and housing authorities in the development, financing, and disposition of affordable housing projects.

Before joining Holland & Hart, Erin worked as in-house counsel at a large title company and in private practice at an Am Law 100 firm and regional firms. Erin also served as a law clerk to the U.S. Bankruptcy Court, District of Colorado.
