

Kathryn J. Carlisle-Kesling

Partner
 801.799.5739
 Salt Lake City
kjcarlisle-kesling@hollandhart.com

Promises Delivered: CDFI Fund Announces $5 Billion in New Market Tax Credits

Insight — 09/09/2021

On September 1, 2021, at a time when America's underserved and distressed communities need financial investment the most, the U.S. Department of Treasury through its Community Development Financial Institution Fund announced it will allocate $5 billion in new markets tax credits (NMTCs) in calendar year 2020. The U.S. Department of the Treasury, Community Development Financial Institutions Fund (CDFI) 2020 Awards Book highlights that $2.35 billion (or 47% of the total allocation) will be awarded to minority- or native-owned or controlled entities; $1.094 billion (or 20%) will be awarded to rural communities; and $1.1 billion (or 22%) will be used to finance and support real estate projects in low-income communities.

CDFI awarded allocations to a total of 100 community development entities (CDEs) headquartered in 34 states and the District of Columbia. The allocation amounts to the CDEs range from $15 million to $65 million. This completes the 17th round of allocations since Congress established the NMTC program in 2000.

Established under Section 45D of the Internal Revenue Code, the NMTC program serves as a critical source of financing intended to spur economic development and business growth in underserved communities across America. For every $1 the federal government invests, the NMTC program generates over $8 of private investment.¹ Taxpayers receive a 39% tax credit (claimed over 7 years) for qualified investments in CDEs. In turn, CDEs use the proceeds, oftentimes, to close the funding gap for projects aimed to help individuals, families, and communities succeed.

Typical projects include the acquisition, rehabilitation, or construction/development of real estate as well as projects designed to help grow businesses operating in low-income communities. Many segments of industry have been represented in past years, including manufacturing, daycare facilities, vocational and skills training, medical centers, teen youth centers, theatre and performing arts spaces, affordable housing projects, shelters and community food banks, mixed-use commercial developments, community/urban gardens, and businesses that provide food deserts (urban cores) with education and access to nutritious food.

¹U.S. Department of the Treasury, Community Development Financial Institutions Fund (CDFI) 2020 Awards Book.

This publication is designed to provide general information on pertinent legal topics. The statements made are provided for educational purposes only. They do not constitute legal or financial advice nor do they necessarily reflect the views of Holland & Hart LLP or any of its attorneys other than the author(s). This publication is not intended to create an attorney-client relationship between you and Holland & Hart LLP. Substantive changes in the law subsequent to the date of this publication might affect the analysis or commentary. Similarly, the analysis may differ depending on the jurisdiction or circumstances. If you have specific questions as to the application of the law to your activities, you should seek the advice of your legal counsel.